

CHANGE HAS COME!

"There is nothing permanent in the world except Change"- unknown, in the constant rotation of the world, there is always the word- change whether positive, or even negative.

January 20, 2020 recorded the first case of Covid-19 in the Philippines, a destructive enemy we do not see, which to this day continues to sow fear and apprehension in everyone. Fear of infecting others, co-workers, acquaintances, friends, relatives especially those who have left our homes especially our family members. Fear that you may be carrying a virus that will harm others who are you - the bearer. Loved ones who would rather be together for a long time but you are the igniter the world will never see the future, loved ones will never be kissed again, I would have tightened my hug, I would have made the most of the kiss. Thanks that would have come out of my lips over and over again. Repeatedly running in the mind. The words "hope". I hope I appreciate you, I hope I relentlessly made you feel that you are important. Those are just a few of the terms mentioned people who have lost loved ones due to the pandemic. But it is necessary to be resilient in any challenge of life.

If there is a negative, as a wealthy Filipino, the word stop and surrender is not in our vocabulary. There are chances of collapse caused by infertility. But no fight will be fought. It is okay to be hurt and fall but to be fed with sadness and loss. Instead it will use inspiration and motivation and be considered a lesson learned from the great educator – the experience.

Face the open penetration of hope and lessons learned as a result of experience learned from the past Hoping to change the word and help the world from the muting way I can. Choose to be good even if you think you are against the world. Apply the lessons you learn so that you will hopefully avoid them. The good hopes were replaced by what I tried and I became brave.

We cannot avoid the changes in our lives as if it is attached to our existence as human beings in the world, despite any storm, or even if it is a pandemic or whatever the change is. Remain steadfast and will not succumb to any trial the world throws at us. Stay standing and high forehead to face the storm, pandemic or even whatever. Because I am a FILIPINO.
