

JOURNEY FOR A BETTER EDUCATION

I have read a lot of articles about education, and they led me to one idea- Education is very influential these days. Plenty of mind-boggling questions that need to be answered - How shall education guide us? How can it help us find fulfillment in this busy and complicated world?

We go to school not just to be literate people, not just to master certain skills but to develop our whole being - the body, mind, soul, and spirit. In school, there are immeasurable opportunities for the development of the mind, and the enrichment of the soul, for the growing of a bigger individual. We can never deny the fact that many learners failed to put it in hand. They completely ignore these things.

Education is indeed important. The higher we ascend, the broader the opportunities to come; it heightens our longings for great achievement so that we may become somebody. But even though we are educated, they should not expect too much from us. We are not a superhero. Aim for the reasonable things that we can do. Dedicate our best effort and ability with the idea that we are not going to achieve the impossible.

I know that in our present world, knowledge is very essential for it is the currency of time and that having a college diploma is one token of knowledge and we can only have it through education.

Everybody needs knowledge. But what kind of knowledge anyway? Will it enable us to survive in a world where ignorance rules? No reasonable man could certainly doubt it. Sad to say only a few find it because we are busy looking for something lasting only for a limited time. Why not strive for a better one? We will not lose anything but rather we will gain something.

Are you gratified with the kind of education you have?

Why not search for a better EDUCATION or start a New Journey of Education that will change you for the best.

We should not deceive ourselves. Remember that "Education" is the Bridge that will lead us to the Right and Best Path.
