KULTURASERYE INVITATION

Greetings from Gateway Gallery!

Stay tuned to the third KulturaSerye of the year on July 2, Saturday, from 2 to 3:30 p.m., via Facebook Live-stream.

The talk, Lupang Hinirang: Our Natural Heritage, will be delivered by Ms. Carmela Española, Assistant Professor from the Institute of Biology, College of Science, UP Diliman.

In this talk, Española will talk about the rich flora and fauna of our country, as she maps them on the archipelago.

Discover why the Philippines is blessed with many unique species and why many of these are threatened.

Find out what you can do to conserve Philippine biodiversity - our natural heritage.

Ms. Carmela Española has been closely involved in wildlife conservation efforts in the Philippines. She started as a volunteer with the Philippine Endemic Species Conservation Project in Northwest Panay, where she was introduced to the study of birds and biodiversity. After a year of volunteering as a science teacher in Jolo, Sulu, she took on an exploratory project on this rarely studied island for Fauna and Flora International. This stint inspired the thesis she wrote on the birds of Capual Island in Jolo for a Master's degree in Wildlife Studies. While doing graduate work under Russell E. Train Education for Nature Fellowship of WWF, she took on several volunteer jobs, one of which was with the Babuyan Islands Expedition in 2004. The expedition resulted in the discovery of the Calayan Rail, a new species of near flightless bird that is endemic to the island of Calayan at the northernmost tip of the Philippines. She also co-founded the Wild Bird Club of the Philippines, which is now the fastest growing and most active recreational birdwatching organization in the Philippines. She is currently in the faculty of the Institute of Biology, University of the Philippines Diliman.

To access the talk, like or follow our Facebook Page at <https://www.facebook.com/GatewayGalleryPH>.
