Now that the that the coming school year is just around the corner and face-to-face classes would be on its full form soon, it is essential to plan for the opening of classes and one of the most important areas to be ready for is the learning environment. It would be remarkable that the transition from pandemic to a better health condition will be complemented with a happy learning environment in school.

Our school children deserve to have a clean and orderly classroom. With the teacher's preparation and with the assistance of the other stakeholders, an ideal classroom would be realized. Our learners would be happy to see a place where they could conveniently study and enjoy.

Another thing that would add to the attractiveness of the school and its classroom are the colors. Schoolchildren would find happiness on the different colors that are painted on the school facilities and in the classroom. These visual attractions are so appealing that they make the learners happy whenever they look at them.

The smiles of the people in school are contributory to a happy learning environment. Schoolchildren would certainly feel the love of people around if they have the hearts that care and the faces that exhibit pleasant reactions from the arrivals of the learners in school. It is indeed inviting if the school is filled with happy people who always smile.

A happy learning environment is filled with positivity. Being positive is having a good view, insight, idea or thought about anything. This means that the teachers and other school personnel think for the goodness and welfare of the schoolchildren by the expressions of positive goals, plans, actions and activities for the sake of the learners.

A happy learning environment showcases dynamism and energy. This means that the school and classrooms are filled with activities that make the schoolchildren happy and zestful. It also assures that the learners have fruitful and productive undertakings that not only develops their skills but also make them savor every minute of their stay in the school.

Camaraderie among the people is also seen in a happy learning environment. The school leader, personnel and teaching force are happily united to serve the learners. If the school is free from any conflict and when harmony prevails, then the schoolchildren would witness a happy learning environment.

It is essential for the school to create a kind of learning environment that is clean, orderly, attractive, colorful, loving, caring, positive, dynamic and harmonious for it will create and bring happiness to the learners.
