The great thing on education at present is that it promotes inclusiveness of all learners from different walks of life. Long before only those learners in the mainstream are given more emphasis in the enjoyment of learning but nowadays education is indeed for all.

Primarily, our educators are teaching the students at the mainstream. Different public and private schools were established in our country in order to prepare the learners for the future. These students enjoy the benefits of knowledge and competencies that are being imparted by their teachers in usual schools.

At present, in order to promote inclusiveness, the education sector expended and stretched its vision, mission and goals in order to serve those learners with special needs, those who belong to the out-of-school youth and other marginalized groups.

Currently, inclusiveness is a universal model for learning with the inclusion of special children. Those children who were born with special and unique conditions are being taken care of. There is even a special curriculum for them to develop them holistically.

Individuals with physical disabilities are also well-accepted now in schools. There are teachers who obtained special education course in order to educate the underprivileged kids who need special attention and who really need appropriate education.

For those out-of-school youth there is an Alternative Learning System for them. Their classes provide them with literacy so that they will not be left behind and to prepare them if they still want to continue with their further studies. They are also taught with productive skills that are needed in the outside world.

Surprisingly, there are adult people who really intend to go back to school in order to finish education. The best thing is that they are all welcomed by teachers and they are being encouraged to have the drive and confidence to pursue their dreams.

Inclusiveness means the inclusion of all kinds of people and DepEd is being admired for the promotion of this! Kudos to our education sector for doing your great mission for this is beneficial to all in the campaign for inclusiveness in the field of education!
