As teachers know, some kids, for a variety of reasons, simply have a hard time learning how to read. They often discuss what can be done to get these kids' reading. To help improve struggling readers skills, teachers use different interventions and strategies like, Telephone Trick, Stand Up, Book Series, Study Buddies, Book Clubs, Reading Aloud and many more. Also, the teacher must tell the struggling readers that the best way to become a better reader is to read and read. It is also important to remember, as a teacher can inspire their students to be book lovers. Sharing their own experiences about reading and boosting them is also important. Teachers read to their classes with enthusiasm, sharing some of their favorite books and telling the learners why they love the books, the importance of reading, learners will remember those experiences long after the school year is over. Teaching reading can be as easy, the teacher must also be a good reading model, know how to ask questions. The teacher must also know how to appreciate the development of the readers in order to boost and motivate them to read and understand more. Boosting the confidence of struggling learners by the help of the teacher is important.

Teachers must also demonstrate to the pupils how to move by what they are reading, or laughing when books are funny! The great joys of being a teacher is the opportunity to share knowledge and inspire a life-long love of reading.
