As a teacher, the first and foremost thing to establish is the classroom management. With it, the class would be in order.

Create class rules. The teacher is being anticipated to set the rules and regulations in the classroom. These will assure the obedience and cooperation of the learners making them well-disciplined and respectful.

Establish a positive atmosphere. The teachers should lead in establishing good mood in the class. The positivity and harmony are essential in classroom management in order to create the right class setting.

Make students as leaders. The teachers should develop leaders to help in maintaining discipline and order in the classroom. If these young people are empowered then they will contribute to the good leadership thus maintaining good classroom management.

Appreciate their efforts. The teachers have to appreciate the efforts of the students. If they are well-recognized in the class then they will behave well and would manifest obedience and interest most especially to the teacher.

Make things well-arranged. If the students see that the things in the class are well-arranged, then they may be influenced by the said scenario. If things are organized then this will affect how they manage themselves in the classroom.

Implement good practices. The teachers are indeed the agents of change in the four corners of the classroom. With this, the teachers may set good practices for students to follow and imbibe in their daily stay in the school. The good practices may have strong impact in their attitudes and behaviors. The good practices are helpful in maintaining classroom management.

The classroom teacher has to prioritize the management of the classroom in order to attain success in teaching and in handling the learners very well.
