In this challenging and competitive era particularly in the field of education, everyone is expected to be efficient and competent. School leaders, teachers and students may realize the value of Technical Assistance (TA) in the attainment of success in their respective endeavors.

Technical Assistance (TA) is a kind of support given to anybody in order to attain improvement and enhancement in doing things like in the workplace or in school. This enables the individual to perceive the points or aspects in him or her that needs to be intensified in order to be more efficient, more effective and more productive.

For school leaders, there is a need to provide Technical Assistance (TA) to assist them in managing or governing their respective schools. There are salient features of school leadership that needs to be focused on for the school leaders to reach success and Technical Assistance (TA) would be instrumental in this endeavor.

For teachers, Technical Assistance (TA) is very much appropriate and applicable because this leads them to achieve efficiency and effectiveness in teaching. With Technical Assistance (TA) the teachers are being assisted to improve their teaching skills particularly on their choices of techniques and strategies in the execution of the lessons during class hours. For students, nowadays Technical Assistance (TA) has been more flexible and functional that it does only cater the school leaders and teachers but also the students as well. Technical Assistance (TA) among the learners would be advantageous because this helps them become active and competitive in school. Moreover, Technical Assistance (TA) further develops their skills and talents and also motivates them to be confident.

Support which is the primary concern of Technical Assistance (TA) is indeed important or essential in the field of education. With it the proper direction or path of the people in school various things may be achieved. The quality and competence in whatever you do may be attained through Technical Assistance (TA). It is like a driving force that keeps someone motivated and inspired in the performance of a certain work, task or duty.
