

A DREAM COME TRUE

“When I grow up, I dream to be a teacher...I imagine myself wearing a teacher’s uniform..... I see myself handling pupils of various ages...And it was a dream come true!

During my childhood days, I used to play and act as a little teacher among my playmates. I love wearing skirts and even high-heeled shoes at the age of 4. And as years pass by, my desire became deeper. It was just then I realized how I can be one of the teachers if I am poor...if I cannot continue my studies because of financial difficulty. But then what always came to my mind is a bible verse that goes..”Nothing is impossible with God. I may not be rich, I may not be a genius, and I may not be able to buy all the things I want.....but what I have is a sincere desire and deep passion to be a teacher.

Nowadays, what the youth utters bothers me a lot...They aspire to be a singer, a dancer, a blogger, an online seller, an artist, a model... Is this a result of the pandemic? How I wish I can instill in their young minds the love for this noble profession. How I pray that they also dream to be a teacher, a mentor, an adviser, a guidance counselor, a trainer, a leader, a public servant not only to the community they belong to but to the youth that will be the future generations.

I will always answer yes to this question: Is teaching right for me? Not mainly because of employment benefits and work environment but it is because of the personal passion to be one...indeed a dream come true!
