Teacher II, Gugo Elementary School

A great foundation on education lies on the quality of instructions received from our teachers. It is essential that it in every educational institution as it serves as springboard.

So, it is expected that teachers will maintain the standards of knowledge that they deliver to their learners. It is expected from teachers to impart and plant the necessary skills, abilities and knowledge needed by the learners in order to make them productive.

Quality education will enable a person to realize their real potential and this will be possible in school through the assistance of competent and effective teachers.

The school can offer quality education by standard teaching and conducive learning environment where learners could achieve development, growth and progress

The primary role of the school and its educators is laying a strong foundation. It should provide the basics of education. The essentials of learning in all aspects must be received by the educational clientele.

As it goes along, to further cultivate the minds and spirits of the learners, the educators must provide more significant, meaningful and challenging learning activities.

Eventually, consistent quality and global standard instructions must be supplied by the school. Furthermore, desirable human values and traits must be inculcated in every single way.

It is evident that the quality education must be given by the school and its educators in the pursuit of development and progress of the individuals who are considered as the teaching by continuous instructions – the learning process.

It is not an easy task to provide quality education but the current situations especially on the emerge of pandemic demands it since our country is aiming to produce globally competitive people.

Apparently, qualitative people will start from quality education. It is an education that intends to enhance potentials and an education that does not only educate the mind but develops a man wholly.

It is the great responsibility of the educators to give splendid opportunity to the youth the chance to be educated and be exposed to the realities of the real tough and demanding world.

If the child receives good quality education, then he/she will be well-equipped to face the test of times as he/she crosses the paths of life. Therefore, quality education is a must.
