

THE POWER OF PATIENCE IN EDUCATION

by:

Lorna C. Dawat

Teacher I, J.C. Payumo Jr. Memorial High School

What is the most valuable trait one may have as a teacher? It is the patience that one may have amidst the pandemic. The patience dictates almost all the things that we may feel and without this we may burst into cry, depressions or even feel darkness throughout, it is only with patience we can actually finish what we are doing happily. However having patience is not just having this overnight. It needed to be developed and enhanced. As people grow old, some says patience is developed, other people also believed that as people grow old patience shortens. Whatever is their beliefs on the length of patience, one thing is certain, patience must be lengthen and patience must become a great part of an individual's life.

Patience is indeed essential in teaching. As the teachers are bombarded with many tasks, as they are given with new tasks daily and as the day-to-day teaching survival becomes more complicated with the current scenario of pandemic. Many teachers lose their patience simply because they are not practicing or do not have the time to practice patience. So, in order to become more patient, what are the things that we need to do. First things first, we must always remember that patience is indeed needed in the teaching job and this may give teachers more happiness, contentment and satisfaction as they extend their patience and love, they might see that their values add more and more.

These are the things to remember when developing or enhancing [patience in teaching. This is not just for students but also for other academic supports which is indeed in the sphere of influence among all other teachers.

Try to assess the situation. Assessing the situation may give one more option on what to judge and what to conclude. This may include also of knowing the background of the students before giving him verdict as to what he/she might be needing in the academic realm.

Brighten your perspectives. Try to enhance this skill in giving positive outlook in life and give always the people the benefit of the doubt and look at them positively.

Lastly, be the one to initiate the practice of patience and be the model among all others to become the initial doer of patient people maker.

References:

Ryan,J. (2022). The Power of Patience. <https://www.spiritualityandpractice.com/book-reviews/view/5932/the-power-of-patience/>. Retrieved on June 2022.