

EDUCATING IS A CAREER

by:
Mary Grace M. Ramos

Teaching is a great profession. There is a great deal of duty and responsibility towards children. Along with teaching students information and skills, teachers inspire and motivate their students for the rest of their life. The professors of every student are crucial in assisting them in making important life decisions. Teachers are always working to boost students' confidence and guide them in the right direction. Many instructors have spent their whole careers empowering their students and assisting them in becoming more successful, better-rounded individuals.

Anand Kumar of the Super 30 coaching class is one such example of a teacher who dedicated their entire life to teaching students. He only chooses children from underprivileged areas and provides them with the best education to pass the IIT through coaching. These are the children who will never be able to enroll in coaching programs for competitive exams. Children are inspired, mentored, and taught to pursue their great ideas by Anand Kumar.

The next illustration is Siva Subramania Iyer. He was Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam's professor, and India now has its Missile Man as a result of him. He inspired him to succeed and demonstrated how to fly high. Then came the greatest generation of Indian space experts. As a result, you want to think about pursuing both a teaching job and a passion that will enable you to achieve greater things.

Learning is facilitated by the process of teaching. Teaching is the specialized application of information, skills, and qualities created to offer specific service to satisfy the requirements of both the person and the community in terms of education.

The position of a teacher must be discussed while writing an essay about teaching as a career. A teacher's primary responsibility is to instruct their charges. By offering them encouragement and confidence boosts, encourage them to pursue things that will improve their life. To ensure that students receive the most information and knowledge possible, teachers should research various teaching methods and use them in their lessons.

To ensure that students receive the most information and knowledge possible, teachers should research various teaching methods and use them in their lessons.

Along with teaching the required subject, teachers must also motivate students by exchanging ideas, building relationships with them, and being there for them through all of life's ups and downs. Teaching is the ideal job for you if you can play all of these roles for your pupils.

References:
<https://www.edsys.in>

<https://www.slideshare.net/DeahGalas/the-teaching-profession-65687989>