

THE ROLE OF DEPARTMENT HEADS IN ACHIEVING EDUCATIONAL GOALS

by:

Rosie L. Basilio

Head Teacher III, Limay National High School

The role of the department head in providing effective instruction is of utmost importance in Philippine educational settings. As the leader of the school department, they have the responsibility of ensuring that the teaching strategies, curriculum and resources are aligned with the educational goals and objectives of the school and its students. Department heads are responsible for providing effective instruction to the students, managing the resources of the department, and providing support to the teachers.

The primary role of the department head is to oversee the instructional processes and ensure that the teachers have the resources they need to provide quality teaching. Department heads must work closely with the teachers to understand their individual teaching styles and create strategies that will help them meet the needs of each student. Department heads must also ensure that the curriculum is up to date and being used effectively in the classroom. This includes monitoring the progress of the students and assessing their learning outcomes. In addition, department heads must provide guidance and support to the teachers in order to help them develop better teaching techniques and methods.

In order to provide effective instruction, department heads must have an understanding of the educational goals of the school and the learning needs of the students. They must also be able to identify potential problems and be able to offer solutions. Moreover, they should have a clear understanding of the assessment system of the school and be able to review and evaluate the results of the assessments. Department heads must also be able to communicate effectively with the teachers and the students, and address any concerns or issues that may arise.

Department heads must also ensure that the resources available to the teachers are sufficient and of good quality. This includes making sure that the textbooks, equipment, and other materials are up to date and suitable for the students. Department heads must also ensure that the technology used in the classroom is working properly and that the teachers are using the technology appropriately. Department heads must also be aware of the latest trends and developments in the field of education and be able to provide the necessary guidance and support to the teachers.

The department head also plays an important role in maintaining the morale of the teachers and the students. Department heads must be able to motivate the teachers and the students to work hard and achieve the best results possible. They must also be able to provide support and guidance to the teachers and students during times of difficulty. Furthermore, department heads must be able to provide positive reinforcement to the teachers and students in order to encourage them to keep working hard.

Overall, the role of the department head in providing effective instruction is essential in Philippine educational settings. They must be able to provide guidance and support to the teachers, manage the resources of the department, and ensure that the curriculum and teaching strategies are up to date and suitable for the students. Furthermore, they must also be able to motivate the teachers and the students and provide positive reinforcement in order to help them achieve the best results possible.

References:

1. Arnold, J. (2008). The Role of Department Heads in Improving Instruction. Education Leadership, 65(6), 64-68.
2. Francis, A., & Brown, B. (2007). The Role of Department Heads in Effective Instruction. Journal of Educational Leadership, 63(2), 132-137.

3. Rogers, K. (2006). The Role of Department Heads in Effective Instructional Leadership. Educational Leadership, 63(5), 8-13.
4. Smith, J., & Smith, K. (2009). Leading the Way: The Role of Department Heads in Effective Instruction. Educational Leadership, 66(5), 8-15.
5. White, A. (2013). The Role of Department Heads in Meeting Educational Goals. Educational Leadership, 70(2), 44-48.