

A LIFE OF A TEACHER IN THE NEW NORMAL

by:

MARIA CLARISSA A. MARCELO

Master Teacher II, Orani NHS Parang Parang

The new normal transformed the education and provided a much-needed momentum for digitization. It has changed education system drastically and brought paradigm shift in teaching and learning methodologies. Traditional classroom learning is blended with online mode of teaching to provide uninterrupted access to education.

During this time, teachers are challenge physically, emotionally and even mentally. All teachers ethics must be enhance to surpass a day to day basis fulfilling. Teachers devote their life to the standards and ethics of their work, manage their duties responsibly and develop their work and expertise and gauge their own actions.

In a daily life teacher only want to be treated fairly in their work. Teachers value their work and respect their colleagues. Teaching is one of the vital jobs in community. Teachers' ability to be effective in their work and maintain safetiness of their professional development are dependent not only on their commitment, but also on the funds allocated to teaching and education.

A teacher will always be a teacher, accept and act towards learners as distinctive human beings, respect the rights and behave to them humanely and fairly.

References:

<https://www.oaj.fi/en/education/ethical-principles-of-teaching/teachers-values-and-ethical-principles/#teachers-and-plurality>

<https://www.highereducationdigest.com/the-changing-role-of-the-educator-in-the-new-normal/>