

ETHICS FOR PROFESSIONAL TEACHERS: GUIDE TO QUALITY EDUCATION AND GOOD VALUES TO STUDENTS

by:

MARIA CLARISSA A. MARCELO

Master Teacher II, Orani NHS Parang Parang

In the generation today, teacher is considering the student's parent at school. They are the ones who are responsible for the learning of the students as well as giving discipline in class. The teacher plays a vital role in the student's growth, the teacher is one of the architects of learners, designs, plans and guide them to be a better person, and the whatever the teacher say and do, it will affect them and decide if they make or break a student. Since the students idolize the teacher that makes them imitate or do the same thing as what the teacher do the teacher should always be at his best behavior inside or outside the school premises.

The teacher has a lot of responsibility as a teacher but there are limits on these responsibilities. The teacher should also be responsible for his words, he can teach morals about life but he must avoid discrimination to his students. The teacher should always show love and care to the learner's but the teacher cannot have an intimate relationship with them learn. This limit is made to avoid destroying the learner's life or for having a traumatizing experience in their life.

The Code of Ethics for Professional Teachers in the Philippines states eleven articles, uphold the highest possible standards of quality education etiquette a teacher, their responsibilities and their restrictions. Ethics is what guides us to tell the truth, keep promise as teachers and help someone in need.

Being a teacher means you have to accept this challenge of disciplining students without inflicting pain in them physically or emotionally. A teacher should always know how to deal with her emotions, and should always hold back even if students go out of hand. Hurting them doesn't do any good for them, they might just be traumatized or even be impolite to all teachers for having one bad experience. As a teacher you are responsible not only for your action but for your student's future. You have to lead them to a promising future. But what if students cause trauma to teachers? Are teachers allowed to be mad?

Being a teacher is not an easy job, you have to make sure that before choosing this profession you have a long patience and even calmness. You should always think that every single action you do can soberly affect the student's life. You are not just responsible for the 123s and ABCs but also for their behavior and emotional stability. A teacher doesn't need a wide intellectual understanding but most of all they need to practice handling extreme emotions.

Teachers should always be careful of actions to student, hurting them is reprimanded. Always think before you act, losing yourself in front of students must also be avoided. Students only sees strengths of teachers that's why teacher's weakness must be kept. Not all students understand teacher's infirmity. Some will make fun of it or ignore it. Bear in mind that if you want your student to remember you must do something good to earn their trust.

A speaker on a seminar once said, being a teacher is always about the changing and transforming the lives of children and young people and their families. As for me, it is always about the changing and transforming the lives of children and young people and their families for the BETTER.

References:

<https://www.oaj.fi/en/education/ethical-principles-of-teaching/teachers-values-and-ethical-principles/>

<https://edubirdie.com/examples/professional-code-of-ethics-for-teachers/>