The so-called Learning Management System, otherwise known as LMS is a type of computer software that is not only being popular in the field of education but also gaining more importance in schools.

It contains the resources which are programs, courses, exercises, and assessments which help the teachers and, in the teaching-learning process. This is a kind of innovation that provides easy access materials for teaching and learning.

The best thing in Learning Management System (LMS) is that the learning contents are organized in one storage place. This connotes an easy access to certain teaching or learning materials. With LMS, the lessons, exercises, and assessments are rapidly and easily taken.

Another outstanding feature of Learning Management System (LMS) is that it provides unlimited access to teaching and learning materials and resources. It has an abundant array of teaching as well as learning tools that would increase better performances in teaching and in learning.

Learning Management System (LMS) helps save time, money, and effort. Its quick access could have anyone minimize the time being spent in the access. Its instant availability could save spending money to acquire for materials. Its easy access could lessen the efforts in securing data or information.

This system provides the improvement in the management of learning. The materials are well-organized and the teachers take the advantage of the system in providing quality instructions for the benefit of learners.

Furthermore, Learning Management System (LMS) provides accurate data to teachers and students. This innovative system serves as a tool to provide the necessary information needed in teaching and learning and they are deemed correct.

With Learning Management System (LMS), the student's experience is improved. This means that the students are exposed to more organized and well-tailored system of learning. The materials are readily provided and available for easy access.

Learning Management System (LMS) also enhances communication. This could be the way for the teacher and student to attain regular communication regarding the lessons in school.

Indeed, Learning Management System (LMS) offers several advantages and could be a better bridge between teachers and students to achieve success in the teaching-learning process.
