SCHOOLS, TEACHERS, PARENTS AND STUDENTS FOR A CHILD-FRIENDLY ENVIRONMENT

by:
Ancelma R. Columna
Teacher III, Pita Elementary School

Every educational setting that is friendly to children will always foster a sense of safety, motivation, and also inspiration that enables them to reach their full potential. All schools are essential in creating an environment that encourages inclusivity, empathy, and also respect among all individuals in every community. A well-organized school setting guarantees that students have access to motivating resources, engaging lessons, and areas created to fulfill their educational and emotional requirements. Well-maintained, secure, and welcoming environments cultivate a feeling of connection, which is essential for a child's progress and development. Institutions that prioritize these principles create a foundation for students to thrive and develop a passion for learning every day.

Teachers play a central role in fostering a supportive atmosphere for children. Their method of teaching greatly influences how students view both school and themselves. By adopting child-centered teaching approaches, teachers can establish a learning atmosphere that is interactive, captivating, and accessible to all students. Demonstrating empathy, encouraging open communication, and fostering mutual respect with their students further improves a positive classroom atmosphere. When educators develop an environment that encourages students to openly share their thoughts and learn from errors, they foster confidence and innovation. Educators are crucial in connecting school and home by keeping parents updated and engaged, making sure that each child receives the necessary support for success.

The parents are also essential for creating a child-friendly atmosphere. When parents take an active role in a child's education and work together with teachers, they foster a feeling of togetherness, belongingness and also a common goal. At home, promoting open dialogue, nurturing curiosity, and offering emotional backing establishes a solid foundation for children to thrive academically. Through engagement in school activities, staying updated on their child's development, and fostering good relationships with educators, parents contribute to strengthening the principles of a nurturing and inclusive community. A robust collaboration among schools, educators, students, and parents fosters a setting where children are appreciated and empowered, establishing the foundation for enduring success and joy.

References:

Desforges, C., & Abouchaar, A. (2003). The impact of parental involvement, parental support, and family education on pupil achievements and adjustment: A literature review. Department for Education and Skills.

Fan, X., & Chen, M. (2001). Parental involvement and students' academic achievement: A meta-analysis. Educational Psychology Review, 13(1), 1–22. https://doi.org/10.1023/A:1009048817385

Hill, N. E., & Tyson, D. F. (2009). Parental involvement in middle school: A meta-analytic assessment of the strategies that promote achievement. Developmental Psychology, 45(3), 740–763. https://doi.org/10.1037/a0015362

Jeynes, W. H. (2011). Parental involvement and academic success. Harvard Family Research Project.

National PTA. (n.d.). National standards for family-school partnerships: An implementation guide. National Parent Teacher Association.